

Artist Bio: Sophie Hogan

Elora based photographer, Sophie Hogan, has been honoring her skills as a portrait photographer for the past 30 years. Energized by project based photography, her campaigns generally use activism to create awareness around social and environmental issues. From body image, to teenagers, to community water protection, Sophie connects with her subjects to add their voices to her art.

The Night Shots series originated to spend creative time with teens. Fascinated by the cinematic feel of shooting at night, Sophie went on to photograph in small town Ontario and several travel locations.
